

Teaching Evaluation Summary

Anupam Ghosh

The Instructor:	Fall 2019 (UARK)	Spring 2020 (UARK)	Summer 2022 (UNL)	Fall 2022 (UNL)
Has a clear understanding of the course topics.	3.51	4.22	×	×
Makes me feel welcomed in the class or respects students' opinions.	3.09	4.33	4.2	4.2
Creates a challenging learning environment or helps in critical thinking.	2.37	3	4.4	3.8
Helps me in active participation.	2.81	3.78	4.2	4.2
Is accessible (where to go for help in the course)	3.33	4	4.6	4.4

Fall 2022 ( ECON 211: Principles of Macroeconomics ; Role: Course Instructor )

- “The book is nice; the slides are nicer”.
- “He always makes sure we spend more time learning the tougher/or more useful concepts fully”.
- “ I like class discussion”.
- “ I believe this course comes with a lot of challenges!”.

Summer 2022 ( ECON 211: Principles of Macroeconomics ; Role: Course Instructor )

- “Anupam Ghosh has made course expectations clear as day, and I always receive immediate feedback on my work for this course.”
- “He always makes sure we spend more time learning the tougher/or more useful concepts fully”.
- “ I like class discussion”.
- “ I believe this course comes with a lot of challenges!”.

Spring 2020 ( ECON 2143: Basic Economic Theory & Practice ; Role: Course Instructor )

- “First of all, Professor Ghosh is extremely enthusiastic about the material. I always went to class knowing he was prepared and wanted us to learn as much as possible. He always answered e-mails quickly and respectfully. I believe my biggest barrier in this class was myself because my brain just does not comprehend economics clearly. However, he always tried his hardest to explain it to me. He does carry a heavy accent, so the first few weeks were hard to understand his lectures clearly, but it was not a problem after awhile. I believe this course would become better if more of the students participated! My professor tried his hardest to get the students involved.”

Fall 2019 ( ECON 2143: Basic Economic Theory & Practice ; Role: Course Instructor )

- “Mr. Ghosh, thank you for everything this semester. Though economics is out of my interest area, I still enjoyed learning about principles of economics. My suggestions would be to provide more questions to answer. I learn best from answering practice questions. Cengage was helpful for this, but these questions were not typically consistent with what we cover in class. Many of the questions were 'trivial' on cengage, and this was frustrating when trying to get a grasp of the concepts. I appreciate how you engage the class by asking us questions that require us to think and reason. I also appreciated that you used real-world examples from your own experiences.”