- This is easily the worst professor/teacher I have ever had in my life. He doesn't provide clear answers to questions, his lectures aren't easy to understand, the average grade on our last exam was a D with nobody receiving an A, and yet he doesn't take initiative to help our class improve, etc.
- There wasn't much that I found "beneficial" to my learning. I had to learn a lot of the course on my own.

- To make this course better, I would make more assignments. Everything is too heavily weighted, and if we don't do good on one thing it's pretty hard to climb back from.
- I was not the biggest fan of the cheat seat assignments because we could not use them on the test even though they are called cheat sheets. I feel like it would be less misleading if you named the assignment something other than cheat sheet.

- test are way too hard
- I was never sure how to study properly for this class, and one time I used one of the free econ tutors from the syllabus and my tutor was not equipped with the right knowledge to help me. I felt pretty like I was in a maze while in this course and didn't quite know how to get out.

- it is very hard to understand Professor Ghosh. I also do not know how he grades the "cheat sheet" assignments. I've gotten the same score twice with very little feedback. The test average for our second midterm was in the mid 60s which is way too low for an intro level econ class.
